Keeping Washington loggers safe.

Hazards Identified By DOSH Consultation

June 4, 2014

All LSI participants receive a comprehensive DOSH Consultation; attached is a list of hazards identified by the DOSH consultants through June, 2014. The number indicates how many times the hazard was identified.

A serious hazard is where there is a substantial probability of death or serious physical harm resulting from a hazardous condition, or from one or more practices, means, methods, or operations.

A general hazard are situations where the most serious injury, illness or disease that would be likely to result from a hazardous condition cannot reasonably be predicted to cause death or serious physical harm to exposed employees, but does have a direct and immediate relationship to their safety and health.
